Mission Statement & Program Activities Descriptions

Mission Statement

She Should Run is a non-partisan 501(c)3 with the mission to expand the talent pool of women running for office in the United States. She Should Run is committed to getting at least 250,000 women to run by 2030.

Program Activities & Descriptions

Our programs provide an approachable starting place and network for women leaders considering a future run by providing community, resources, and growth opportunities. Programs include:

1. [Leadership Development Education & Community] She Should Run Incubator

The Incubator is a set of free, self-paced online courses, facilitated in-person trainings, and virtual community that help women and girls develop practical skills and give context for what matters most through the lens of public service. The Incubator provides thoughtful guidance and support for women and girls considering a future run. Women join the Incubator self-motivated to register, or through our Ask A Woman to Run tool. Research shows that when women run, they are elected at the same rate as men. Research has also shown that women need to be asked at least twice before they seriously consider running for public office. The Ask a Woman to Run tool allows people (men and women) to nominate a friend or someone they know to start their path toward considering a run for office.

For so many, it's unclear even daunting to know where to start if you are interested in running for office some day. She Should Run designed the Incubator to be a leadership development program that meets women (and girls, with the help of parents or mentor in their lives) where they are: at the very beginning. Our 16,000 + Incubator Members have access to approachable resources (incl. courses, educational materials, speaker presentations, and a supportive peer network) that lay the groundwork and connect the dots between their current leadership experiences to a future run.

The Incubator is open to all women and accessible to participants nationwide. We believe that women of all political leanings, ethnicities, and backgrounds should have an equal opportunity to lead in elected office and that our democracy will benefit from the varied perspectives and experiences that women bring to leadership.

2. [National Awareness] National Conversation & Speaking Engagements

She Should Run focuses on bringing new voices and supporters to the cause of advancing women's representation in elected office at every level and across the political spectrum. We do that primarily through social media communications campaigns, at speaking engagements nationwide, and She Should Run's signature event, National Conversation.

We hosted our inaugural National Conversation post-elections November 2017 in Washington, DC. We facilitated an activation conversation with panel talks and a networking opportunity with the goal of reframing and redefining what it means to step into the political sphere. Our national awareness programs inspire more women and girls to consider serving in elected office and make the case that public service matters.
